Gardening Workshop Series with The North Fulton Master Gardeners

Alpharetta has hosted classes in partnership with and taught by the North Fulton Master Gardeners for many years. We all look forward to being able to hold classes in person in the future; however, for the foreseeable future, the gardening workshops are being offered via video.

Here is the list of classes that the North Fulton Master Gardeners are pre-recording and posting to their YouTube channel for the fall. The first classes will include:

- “Hydrangeas - How to Plant, Grow, and Prune” with Master Gardener Linda Cline;
- “Gardening in the Shade”;
- “Fragrant Gardens for All Seasons” with Master Gardener Carole MacMullan;
- “Create A Fall Vegetable Garden” with Master Gardener George Scesney;
- “Top Ten Lawn Care Mistakes” with Master Gardener Ben Whitley; and,
- “Vermicomposting” with Master Gardener Kathie Lunsford.

When you use the link provided, <https://www.youtube.com/c/NorthFultonMasterGardeners/playlists> , it takes you to the playlist, where you can see the presentations that are PowerPoint based and are the more traditional classes. You can also see gardening videos that have been recently done by the UGA extension: Home garden tours which are short, informal videos of the gardens of some of our Master Gardeners, Master Gardener videos at Farm Chastain, and finally a video on how to become a Master Gardener. Videos can be watched at your convenience.
